SUBJECT: State-Defined Required English Language Instructional Program Exit Criteria

This document outlines the minimum criteria that English language learners (ELLs) must meet in order to be eligible for exit from an English Language Instructional Program (ELIP). These criteria were developed by a committee of ESL/bilingual education professionals from across Rhode Island in collaboration with the Office for Instruction, Assessment, and Accountability and Office for Diverse Learners at the Rhode Island Department of Education.

The criteria outlined in this document are a minimum requirement for eligibility to be considered for exit from an ELIP. A student may not be exited from the ELIP unless he/she meets these requirements. However, a local education agency (LEA) is not under any obligation to exit a student who exceeds these requirements if the LEA has compelling evidence that continued participation in the ELIP is in the best interest of the student. Whether the decision is made to exit or retain a student who has exceeded these minimum requirements, the LEA must explain the decision to the parent/guardian of the ELL in accordance with section L-4-23 and/or section L-4-16(c) of the rules and regulation authorized by R.I.G.L. 16-54-2.
